

BRAND IDENTITY PACK

Little Birdee

Improve yr profit.

Prepared for Scott Taylor

Version 1.0 · July 2026 · Working document

Cost?
Two coffees
a week

What this pack is for

This is the single source of truth for how Little Birdee looks, sounds and behaves. Everything downstream — the app UI, the website, every ad, every caption, every founder video — should trace back to what's in here.

It's built from your brand voice notes and our working sessions. It is deliberately not slick, corporate or accountancy, because Little Birdee isn't. Think of it as the rulebook a boutique agency would hand a team so ten different people can make work that all feels like it came from the same cheeky little bird.

The whole brand in one breath

Little Birdee is a fun, dead-simple tool that pulls the numbers already sitting in your business and shows you the one that matters — profit — right now, not on the 10th of next month. Built by operators, for operators. Two coffees a week.

01	The Big Idea	What we are, what we're not
02	Positioning & Audience	Who it's for and where we sit
03	Brand Personality	The five traits that define us
04	Voice & Tone	How we talk, word swaps, the chirp
05	Messaging & Taglines	Hero line, options, proof, objections
06	Colour	Palette with hex values & usage
07	Typography	Type system and rules
08	Logo & Birdee the Mascot	The bird, clearspace, do's & don'ts
09	Product & Motion	Traffic lights, buttons, the poppy feel
10	Website Copy Guidance	Section-by-section landing page
11	Social Media Guidelines	Pillars, captions, visual rules
12	3-Month Launch Plan	Content, spend & funnel to 1,000+
13	One-Page Cheat Sheet	Pin this to the wall

See your profit before and as it happens

Most business owners don't find out if they made money until their accountant sends a P&L 10 or 14 days into the next month. That's crazy. You can't steer a business looking in the rear-view mirror.

Little Birdee takes the four numbers that decide profit — the ones already on your P&L, in your business, or in your head — pulls them together, and puts profit right in front of your nose. Today. Predictively for the week ahead, and accurately for the day, week or month just gone. Because if you can see it, you can improve it.

✓ What Little Birdee IS

- › A cute, simple tool that shows profit now
- › Predictive and actual — budget vs. reality
- › Built for people who can't (and won't) read a spreadsheet
- › Under 5 minutes of input a week
- › Cheap — around two coffees a week
- › Made by operators, for operators

✗ What it's NOT

- › A heavy financial report
- › Something that needs a numbers brain
- › Hours of data entry
- › Expensive software
- › A tool that tells you how to run your business
- › Accountancy, corporate or slick

The four numbers that decide profit

Every business, at the end of the day, comes down to four figures. Birdee gathers them and does the maths so nobody has to.

1

Revenue

What comes in. Predicted by the owner, or pulled from the point of sale.

2

Wages

Labour including all on-costs. Manual now; rostering-software link later.

3

Cost of Goods

A set % of revenue. Anywhere from 0–99% — a sauna at 2.5%, a cafe at 35%, or a retail store at 60%.

4

Fixed & Variable

Everything else — rent, power, insurance, ads, software — amortised to a daily cost.

Seems simple, right? Yeah — we think so too. Finally, a tool that just tells you how your business is doing.

Where we sit

Positioning statement

For micro, small and medium business owners who are too busy to wrestle with spreadsheets, Little Birdee is the fun little profit tracker that turns the numbers already in your business into a clear, real-time read on profit — so you can make good calls now, not next month. Unlike accountant-built dashboards, Birdee is predictive, dead simple, and cheap enough to be a no-brainer.

Who we're talking to

The cafe owner. The hairdresser. The chef who ended up running the place. The dance-school owner, the retailer, the sauna operator. People who are brilliant at their craft and their venue, but were never "numbers people" and don't want to be.

The rushed operator

15 seconds between coffees.
Wants one answer: am I making money?

The non-numbers brain

Freezes at a spreadsheet. Needs it as simple as a light turning green.

The improver

Once they can see profit, they want the little levers to nudge it up.

The one competitor to know

Products like Hospo Health are aimed at a similar problem — but they get it wrong three ways, and every one of those is an opportunity for us:

They get it wrong	We get it right
Not predictive enough — reports on what already happened	Predict the week ahead, then compare to what actually lands
Looks like accountants built it	Looks like a game — one number, front and centre
Tries to do too many things	Does one thing: profit visibility, brilliantly

Our north star for feel: as intuitive as an Apple product, as friendly as Duolingo's mascot — but dialled about halfway to that cartooniness. Never a Squarespace site full of tables and graphs.

If Birdee were a person

A mate who happens to be great with numbers, sitting across the bench from you — not an accountant across a desk. Encouraging, a bit cheeky, never preachy. Here are the five traits that govern everything.

1 • Cheeky & irreverent

A bit rude, in a fun way. We take the mickey, never ourselves too seriously. "Don't know if you hit profit yesterday? You need a Little Birdee in yr business."

2 • Refreshingly simple

Fewer words, bigger buttons. If a chef in a rush can't get it in five seconds, it's too complicated. Simplicity is the product and the personality.

3 • On your side

Warm and reassuring, never judgy about your numbers. "Not 100% on top of your numbers? All good — Birdee's got your back."

4 • Fun & poppy

Movement, colour, a little bird that reacts. Money stuff that feels like a game, not a tax return.

5 • Straight-shooting

No jargon, no fluff, no fake hype. We say the true thing in the plainest, punchiest way. Confidence without corporate.

We are

Cheeky • warm • plain-spoken • playful •
confident • encouraging

We are never

Corporate • preachy • jargon-heavy • slick •
judgy • boring

How Little Birdee talks

Less words. Anti-professional. No finance jargon. Everyday language a customer would actually use with their staff. When in doubt, say it out loud — if it sounds like a person, keep it. If it sounds like a bank, bin it.

Five voice principles

Everyday over official

Say "how's my profit looking?" not "profit examination."

Short & sharp

If you can cut a word and keep the meaning, cut it. Punchy beats polished.

Talk to one mate

Second person, casual. "Yr," "you," "we get you." Never "users" or "the customer."

Profit first

Every message loops back to seeing and improving profit. That's the whole point.

Reassure, don't lecture

We've got your back. We never tell you how to run your business.

Word swaps — our house style

The Chirp — our signature move

Little Birdee doesn't "notify." It chirps. A chirp is a short, friendly nudge — a daily "here's how we went yesterday" that lands by email at a time the owner picks (5am, 7:05am, whenever). One tap and they're looking at yesterday. Always warm, always short, always ends pointing at profit.

Example chirp: "Morning! Yesterday you made $141 profit — $23 ahead of budget. Nice one. Tap to see how."

Tone that flexes

The voice is always Birdee, but the tone dials up or down with the moment.

Moment	Tone	Example
Profit up (green)	Celebrate, a bit smug	"Get in. Best day this week."
Profit down (red)	Calm, no panic, on your side	"Down a touch yesterday. Here's why — no drama."
No data yet	Cheeky nudge	"Bit empty in here. Pop yr numbers in and I'll get to work."
Ads / cold audience	Punchy, provocative	"Don't know if you made money yesterday? Why not?"

What we say

HERO TAGLINE

Improve yr profit.

The keeper. We spell it yr, not "your" — casual and spoken, signalling "by operators, for operators" without tipping into too-informal territory. It's the deliberate shorthand that makes the line feel like one of us, not a bank. Lead with "Improve yr profit" everywhere.

Secondary lines — good data now, good calls now

Support lines that back up the hero. Use them under headlines, in captions and on secondary screens.

"Don't wait till the 10th of next month to find out if you're in profit."

"Profit. See it. Improve it. Simple as that."

Provocative hooks — for cold ads & pain-point content

"Too busy to look at a spreadsheet? Yeah, we get you."

"Not 100% on top of yr numbers? All good — Birdee's got yr back."

"What profit did you make this week? Don't know? Why not?"

"Don't know if you hit profit yesterday? You need a Little Birdee in yr business."

The two things we always say differently

1 • We improve yr profit

Real-time, predictive visibility of profit using the info already in your business — so you can act now, not on the 10th of next month.

2 • It's really, really cheap

Around $9–12 AUD a week. That's two coffees. Probably the best-value spend a business makes each week.

Handling the big objection

"But my accountant can give me this info."

Yeah... but they don't, do they? And not until the 10th of next month. For the price of two coffees a week, why wouldn't you just let Birdee take care of it — every single day?

Proof points to lean on

- › Uses numbers already in your business — nothing new to gather
- › Under 5 minutes of input a week
- › Predictive and actual — see the week before it happens, then how it really went
- › Green means go, red means look — visibility a kid could read
- › Two coffees a week

The palette

These are Little Birdee's live design tokens — the exact values used in the product. Build the website, ads and every new surface from these, and reference the CSS variable names so everything stays in sync.

The tactile motif — the poppy, pressable feel

Every primary control sits on a solid coloured base shadow in Yellow Edge (0 3px 0), lifts 1px on hover, and presses 2px down on click. Secondary controls use a lighter 0 2px 0. This "poppy," pressable feel is the core of the Little Birdee brand — money stuff that behaves like a game, not a form.

Sunflower yellow — the brand

Primary fill, hover, tactile edge and soft tints.

 Yellow #fcb400 --lb-yellow Primary fill — buttons, brand blocks, the bird.	 Hover #ffc52b --lb-yellow-hover Lighter hover state on primary controls.	 Edge #c88400 --lb-yellow-edge The solid base shadow under pressable controls.
 Soft #fff5d6 --lb-yellow-soft Warm tint for panels & highlights.	 Yellow ink #6b4c00 --lb-yellow-ink Deep gold for text/accents on yellow.

Ink & neutrals — text, borders, surfaces

 Ink #10203c --lb-ink Primary text & outlines. Our "black."	 Muted #566783 --lb-muted Secondary text, captions, labels.	 Line #dfe3ea --lb-line Borders & dividers.
 Surface #f1f3f6 --lb-surface-muted Muted panel / inactive surface.	 Paper #f9f9f9 --lb-paper Page & card canvas.

Semantic — profit & loss

The traffic-light system. Positive/negative plus soft pairs for backgrounds, and Focus for links.

 Positive #287a53 --lb-positive Profit / green light. Ahead of budget.	 Positive soft #edf7f1 --lb-positive-soft Background behind positive numbers.	 Negative #c94b43 --lb-negative Loss / red light. Behind budget.
 Negative soft #fbefed --lb-negative-soft Background behind negative numbers.	 Focus #315b98 --lb-focus Links, focus rings, quiet highlights.

Usage rules

- Yellow + Ink is the signature pairing — the "big yellow button, ink writing" combo. Use it for every primary action, sitting on its Yellow Edge base shadow.
- Keep Positive & Negative for meaning only (profit up / down). Never decorate with them, or the traffic light stops meaning anything.
- Backgrounds lean on Paper & Surface, warmed with Yellow Soft — not stark white, never clinical.
- Text is Ink (#10203c), not pure black; secondary text is Muted. Softer and more modern.
- Text on yellow uses Ink or Yellow Ink for contrast — never white on yellow.

Type system

Rounded, friendly, confident. Big and chunky where it counts. The type should feel closer to a games app than a banking app — but still crisp enough to read a number in a hurry.

DISPLAY & HEADINGS

Poppins

Poppins ExtraBold / Bold. Geometric, rounded, friendly. Used for the wordmark, hero lines, big profit numbers and headings. This carries the "poppy" energy.

Chunky alt for the logo only: a rounded display face like Fredoka can be explored for extra cartoon weight.

BODY & UI

Nunito

Nunito (or Lato as a fallback). Rounded, warm, highly legible at small sizes. Used for body copy, labels, buttons, captions and everything functional.

Hierarchy & rules

Level	Font / weight	Where
Hero / big number	Poppins ExtraBold	"$506 profit", hero taglines
Heading	Poppins Bold	Section & screen titles
Button label	Nunito Bold	Big yellow buttons
Body	Nunito Regular	Explanations, captions
Micro / meta	Nunito SemiBold	Labels, timestamps

- › Make the one number that matters the biggest thing on any screen — profit dwarfs everything else.
- › Few words per button. "How's my profit looking?" is about the ceiling.
- › Sentence case, not Title Case. We talk like people, not headlines.
- › Generous line height and spacing — never cramped, never a wall of numbers.

Meet Birdee

The bird is the brand's beating heart — the thing people remember, the reason it feels fun instead of financial. Direction: cartoony, three-dimensional, a bit of texture and movement. Think the chunky, characterful 3D of a playful "404 fox," dialled to a cheerful little bird.

Working version of the Little Birdee logo.

Birdee's character

- Round, chunky, huggable — soft shapes, no sharp edges
- Big expressive eyes; reads emotion instantly
- Yellow body, deep-gold beak & feet, Ink outline
- 3D with subtle texture & shadow — pops off the screen
- Reactive: cheers on a green day, a knowing look on a red one
- Cute, but not baby-ish — about halfway to Duolingo, not all the way

Wordmark lockup

"Little Birdee" set in Poppins ExtraBold, lowercase-friendly, rounded, sitting next to or under the bird. Note the spelling: Bird-e-e (double-e), never "Birdie." The bird can perch on, replace a letter, or sit left of the wordmark.

✓ Do

- › Give the logo room to breathe — clearspace at least the height of the bird's head on all sides
- › Keep the bird on yellow, cream, sky or white
- › Keep the Ink outline for punch
- › Let it move — a bob, a blink, a wing-flap in digital
- › Use a single-colour Ink version for tiny/stamp uses

✗ Don't

- › Spell it "Birdie" — it's Birdee
- › Flatten it into a generic 2D icon or clip-art
- › Recolour the bird off-palette
- › Stretch, squash or rotate the wordmark
- › Place it on a busy photo with no contrast panel
- › Make it look accountanty, corporate or "fintech serious"

Birdee in use

On the website and in the app, Birdee shows up as a soft, sculpted, 3D character — warm, textured and full of personality. Use these rendered versions; don't flatten Birdee into clip-art or redraw the shapes.

Website hero

Landing-page hero: Birdee in flight, big yellow tactile button, one clear message. Movement and depth do the work.

Birdee's moods

Same cute character, re-posed and re-expressed for the moment — celebrating a good day, keeping calm on a bad one, and walking you through setup.

Using Birdee's moods

Match the pose to the screen — never flatten or redraw the character. Always the cute, sculpted 3D Birdee.

How the brand behaves

The brand isn't just how it looks — it's how it moves and how it's laid out. One message per screen. Profit front and centre. Everything else a tap away.

The traffic light — our core visual system

The single most important pattern. Am I making money? Green or red, instantly. It works perfectly as-is — protect it.

Layout principles

Motion & feel

- › Poppy & pressable — primary controls sit on a solid Yellow Edge base shadow (0 3px 0), lift 1px on hover, and press 2px down on click.
- › Birdee reacts — the mascot animates to the result: celebrating green, a knowing glance on red.
- › Rewarding, game-like — small satisfying animations, like levelling up, not loading a report.
- › Movement with restraint — enough to feel alive, never so much it's in the way of the number.

The test for any screen: could a chef, mid-rush, get the answer in 15 seconds? If not, simplify until they can.

The landing page

A world-class, fun, moving, poppy SaaS site — not a Squarespace template full of tables. Its two jobs: explain clearly what Birdee does, and capture the waitlist. Every line in Birdee's voice. Below is section-by-section guidance with starter copy.

SECTION 1 • HERO

Improve yr profit.

Sub-line: See your profit before and as it happens — using the numbers already in your business. For less than two coffees a week.

CTA button (big, yellow): "Get on the list" / "Try Little Birdee"

Birdee front and centre, animated. Poppy yellow. One clear message, one clear button.

SECTION 2 • THE PROBLEM

Your accountant's great. Just... slow.

Most owners find out if they made money on the 10th of next month. Too late to change anything. Birdee shows you profit today — so you can actually do something about it.

SECTION 3 • HOW IT WORKS

Four numbers. One answer.

Pop in (or link) four numbers already in your business — revenue, wages, cost of goods, and the rest. Birdee does the maths and shows you profit: predicted for the week ahead, real for the day just gone. Green means go. Red means look. Under 5 minutes a week. Keep it to three simple steps with the bird walking you through.

SECTION 4 • WHAT MAKES IT DIFFERENT

Two things we do that nobody else does

1 — We're predictive: see the week before it happens, then how it really went. 2 — We're dead simple and dead cheap: built for operators, two coffees a week. Show the "what if" and "what happened" tools here as playful, interactive moments.

SECTION 5 • PRICING

About two coffees a week.

Around $9–12 AUD a week. Probably the best-value spend your business makes. No spreadsheets, no numbers degree, no accountant wait. Frame price as a coffee comparison, never a "plans & features" table.

SECTION 6 - WAITLIST CTA (REPEAT OF HERO)

Don't know if you made money yesterday? Let's fix that.

Single email field + one big button: "Get on the list." Confirmation in-voice: "You're in. Birdee will chirp when we're ready."

Build notes for the site: reference world-class, interactive SaaS sites (motion, 3D character moments) as the bar. Movement and a 3D Birdee throughout. Fun 404 page with Birdee. Fast, mobile-first — most traffic arrives from an Instagram ad on a phone.

Birdee on the feed

Instagram and TikTok are where this product sells — mostly through paid ads and affiliates. The brand should feel like the funniest, most useful little account a small-business owner follows. Scroll-stopping, plain-talking, always looping back to profit. Drive everything to the DMs.

Content pillars

Pillar	What it does	Example
Pain point	Name the problem out loud	"POV: it's the 12th and you still don't know if last month made money."
Founder-led	Build trust, tell the why	Founder to camera: "I built this because my accountant was always too late."
Great result	Show the payoff	"She found $400/week hiding in her roster."
User endorsement	Social proof, real operators	Cafe owner: "I check it before I've made my first coffee."
Educational / quick win	Useful, snackable value	"The one number most cafes ignore — and it's costing them."
Product / feature	Show the fun UI & the bird	Screen-record the green light hitting + "what if" slider.

Caption voice

- › Hook in the first line — a question, a callout, a "POV." Assume they're scrolling fast.
- › Short lines, lots of white space. One idea per line.
- › Cheeky, a bit rude, never mean. Talk to one operator.
- › Always end pointing somewhere: "DM us 'PROFIT' and we'll send it."
- › Sparing emoji — the is ours; use it like a signature, not confetti.

Visual rules

Look

Poppy yellow, Ink, big rounded type. Birdee shows up often. Real operators in real venues, not stock-photo boardrooms.

Format

Vertical 9:16 first. Captions burned in (sound-off viewing). Fast cuts. Show the app's green/red moment — it's inherently satisfying.

Route everything to the DMs

CTAs push to DMs, where an AI-assisted auto-responder handles the first replies, answers the "how much / how does it work" questions, and drops the waitlist or app link. Keep the automated replies in Birdee's voice — warm, short, cheeky.

Getting to 1,000 users

A 12-week plan to launch Little Birdee and hit the first 1,000 users, building the engine that scales toward 10,000. Instagram + TikTok led, paid-ads driven, affiliate-boosted, DM-converted. Treat the numbers below as a starting framework to refine against real cost-per-result once ads are live.

The funnel

Stage	Job	Mechanism
Attract	Stop the scroll	Paid Instagram/TikTok ads + affiliate clips (rev-share)
Engage	Start a conversation	CTA to DMs → AI auto-responder qualifies & answers
Capture	Get the email	Waitlist landing page (pre-launch) / free trial (launch)
Convert	Turn on the subscription	Trial → paid (~$9–12/wk). Founder VSL + result proof
Retain & refer	Keep them & multiply	Daily chirp habit + affiliate/referral loop

The three phases

Phase 1 • Tease & build the list — Weeks 1–3

Goal: a warm waitlist and a content bank before a dollar of scale. Stand up socials, post daily, launch a small paid test to a waitlist page.

- Publish the brand: profile, bio ("Improve yr profit."), Birdee everywhere
- 3–5 posts/week per platform across pain-point, founder, teaser
- Low daily ad spend to a waitlist page; test 4–6 hooks, find winners
- Recruit first 5–10 affiliates (operators with audiences)

Phase 2 • Launch & scale what works — Weeks 4–8

Goal: open the doors, pour spend into proven hooks, convert the list. Founder VSL goes live. Daily posting continues.

- Launch to the waitlist first (early-bird framing)
- Scale the 2–3 winning ad hooks; kill losers weekly
- Founder-led VSL as the main conversion ad
- First user results become endorsement content — reinvest ad budget from revenue as CPA proves out

Phase 3 • Prove, systemise & push to 1,000+ — Weeks 9–12

Goal: a repeatable machine and clear unit economics heading past 1,000.

- Double down on best-performing pillar & affiliates
- Retention focus: the daily chirp drives the habit that keeps subscriptions on
- Referral loop live ("get a mate on Birdee")
- Lock CAC/LTV; set the scale plan toward 10,000

Content mix & cadence

A balanced diet, weighted to what converts. Rough weekly split across both platforms:

Content type	Share	Primary role
Pain-point short video	~25%	Cold reach / hooks
Founder-led	~20%	Trust & conversion (incl. VSL)
Great result / case	~15%	Proof
User endorsement	~15%	Social proof
Educational quick win	~15%	Value & saves/shares
Product / feature	~10%	Show the fun & the bird

Spend approach

- › Start small, buy data. Weeks 1–3 run a modest daily test budget purely to find 2–3 winning hooks and a workable cost-per-lead — don't chase volume yet.
- › Scale winners only. From Week 4, shift budget onto proven ads; cut anything above target CPA weekly.
- › Reinvest from revenue. Once a customer is worth clearly more than they cost to acquire, feed a fixed share of subscription revenue back into ad spend to compound growth.
- › Affiliates are leverage. Rev-share clips extend reach with no upfront spend — recruit continuously.
- › Set exact dollar figures with Scott once real CPA/LTV numbers exist — the model above is the framework, not final budgets.

What to measure

Top of funnel

Cost per lead • DM conversations started • hook hold-rate

Conversion

Waitlist→trial • trial→paid • CAC

Health

Weekly active • chirp open-rate • churn • LTV

Milestone check: by end of Week 12, the target is 1,000+ users and — just as important — a proven, profitable ad-and-affiliate engine you can pour more fuel into.

Birdee on one page

Say this

- Improve yr profit
- How's my profit looking?
- Two coffees a week
- See it, improve it
- Birdee's got yr back
- Chirp (not notify)

Never this

- Fiscal visibility / financial performance
- Corporate, slick, accountancy tone
- Jargon or long words
- Green/red as decoration
- "Birdie" (it's Birdee)
- White text on yellow

Colour

Yellow #fcb400 · --lb-yellow
Edge #c88400 · --lb-yellow-edge
Ink #10203c · --lb-ink
Muted #566783 · --lb-muted
Positive #287a53 · --lb-positive
Negative #c94b43 · --lb-negative
Focus #315b98 · --lb-focus

Type & feel

Display: Poppins ExtraBold/Bold

Body/UI: Nunito (Lato fallback)

Feel: poppy, 3D, rounded, game-not-report

Mascot: cute 3D Birdee, reacts to profit

"It needs to look and feel not accountancy, not corporate, not slick. Made by operators, for operators." — Scott

Don't know if you made money yesterday? You need a Little Birdee in yr business.